

Faculty Increases This Fall

A new biology instructor, with special interest in botany, will join the Wartburg College staff this fall, according to Dean of the Faculty Dr. J. O. Chelle-vold.

Clifford M. Wetmore will re-place Dr. Eugene F. Powell. Dr. Powell was here one year as a visiting professor of biology.

Wetmore, who hopes to re-ceive his Ph. D. in botany this summer or fall, comes from Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich.

He has six years experience as a graduate teaching assistant and has spent one summer in Haiti and the Dominican Re-public doing research and another in the Antarctic. He also was a ranger at Isle Royale National Park, Houghton, Mich., for three summers.

His B. S. and M. S. degrees are from Michigan State.

Miss Barbara Belk, new assistant dean of women, will also teach English.

Miss Belk will receive her M. A. degree this August from Ohio State University.

Miss Belk comes from Lutheran High School East of Harper Woods, Mich. She teaches English and speech and is a counselor there.

Dr. Neumann Retires From Wartburg In May

By Marilyn Post

Dr. Gustav J. Neumann, vice-president and professor of English, will culminate 65 years of association with Wartburg College by retiring this month.

Dr. Neumann entered Wartburg Academy at Clinton when he was 13. Since 1901 he has been absent from Wartburg for only 3 years. He received his A. B. from Wartburg in 1907.

He studied at the University of Berlin after graduation from 1907-1909. He earned his A. M. from the University of Iowa, Iowa City, in 1910.

The retiring professor also holds honorary degrees of Ped. D., granted by Capital University in 1935 and of Litt. D., given to him by Wartburg in 1955.

Member of the Wartburg faculty since 1910, he has served as secretary and as registrar. He was dean of faculty from 1928-1948, and he has been vice-president of the college since 1942.

Dr. Neumann's first teaching position was at the University of Iowa during the school term of 1909-1910.

In 1910 the head of the English department left Wartburg and Dr. Neumann was called to the post, which he held until the late Dr. Edwin Sandberg took over in 1960.

By this time Dr. Neumann has taught children and grandchildren of some of his earliest students. "I can't recount them all," he said. Former students include Wartburg faculty members Dr. Gerhard Ottersberg and Dr. A. E. Haefner.

Dr. Neumann, on his 50th anniversary as a teacher in 1960, was presented a self-portrait by the Alumni Association which asked that the college place it in the library. Students can see it as they enter the main reading room.

Dr. and Mrs. Neumann also celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1960. Mrs. Neumann was the former Alma Jensen from Clinton. She passed away March 21, 1963. They have two sons.

One satisfaction for Dr. Neumann is seeing students he has had in the classroom "make good" after leaving college.

The English professor has always been interested in literature. He has a strongly developed feeling that a teacher of literature should attempt to be a good interpretive reader.

"A class never fully appreciates a poem unless the students hear it read well." Following this philosophy, he has combined teaching the history of literature with reading it in the classroom.

He admits this takes time, but then every learning process takes time. "An approach of never reading is similar to trying to teach music without ever playing."

Judging from their comments after students leave his classes, he feels he has succeeded in interesting them in literature. He qualified himself, "I am interested in acquainting students with good literature."

Unknown by many is the fact that Dr. Neumann has been a prolific writer and he is still active in this capacity.

He had written poetry before 1928, but during the years 1928-1930 some of his earliest poems were published in "The Midland Magazine" of the University of Iowa.

About that time he also wrote two collections of Christmas lyrics and later two more. In addition to the four books of Christmas lyrics, he has written and published a Christmas drama.

He has had a considerable number of hymns, one hundred or more, published in the Lutheran Standard. A prayer book for children that contains verse and prose is in its eleventh or twelfth edition at this time.

One summer about fifteen years ago while waiting for a student to complete a test in his office, he began a children's story. He became interested in this kind of writing.

The result was 130 stories in the next year and a half. The collection is entitled "The Door That Walked Away."

Some of Dr. Neumann's hymns have appeared in the hymnal. He has also made translations of a few hymns.

When Wartburg College observed its 100th anniversary, he was asked to prepare a volume for an anniversary publication. At that time Dr. Gerhard Ottersberg, History Department, wrote a history of the college.

Dr. Neumann included the best of his written poems — secular and religious — lyrics, hymns, parables and ballads in the book.

In recent years he has been writing children's poetry. He has an illustrated volume of such work. Altogether he estimated that the number of poems he has written in sixty-five years is between twenty and thirty thousand.

The first creative efforts of Dr. Neumann were printed in "The Wartburg Quarterly." The was started in the fall of 1906 during his last year as a student at Wartburg.

DR. G. J. NEUMANN completes some fifty years of service to Wartburg College this year. His retirement will not be an idle one, however, for he has many activities to fill the extra hours.

Rev. Trout To Speak At Thurs. Convocation

The Rev. Nelson W. Trout will speak in convocation Thursday on the topic, "Living on the Edge of Pentecost."

Trout is the Associate Youth Director in Evangelism for the American Lutheran Church, Minneapolis, Minn.

Schmidt Receives Teaching Award

DR. KARL SCHMIDT was recently named recipient of the Alumni Association Citation for Distinguished Teaching at Wartburg College Award. This is the first presentation of such an award. It is expected to be given yearly.

Members of the senior class chose Dr. Karl Schmidt as the recipient of the first Alumni Association Citation For Distinguished Teaching At Wartburg College Award.

Dr. Schmidt has been at Wartburg since 1951. He has been serving as assistant editor of the "Lutheran World Encyclopedia."

"From a purely personal point of view, I think that Dr. Schmidt is one of the best liked and most personable teachers at Wartburg. He has provided an inspiration and a good Christian example to many of us," said senior class president Phil Truckenbrod.

"We also feel that this choice is indicative of the caliber of instruction we feel Wartburg College is providing its students in the area of religion," Truckenbrod went on.

Leon Carley, senior, said, "His clear lecturing and use of analogies to provide color and interest are not usually found in an ordinary classroom. At the same time he is intellectually stimulating."

Karl Fink, student body treasurer, said, "Through Dr. Schmidt's personal experience, his lectures are brought home in a straightforward manner."

Jackie Lohr, senior senator said, "Two outstanding qualities that I associate closely with Dr. Schmidt are the personal and informal level on which he conducts his classes and his openness to the concerns of students."

When Dr. Schmidt was told of his selection he said, "Are you certain it is little two by four 'Schmidty' that was chosen? I'm certainly honored."

After regaining his composure, Dr. Schmidt said that he was happy to be the recipient of this award and he expressed happiness that his teaching was appreciated. Realizing the number of great teachers at Wartburg, Dr. Schmidt was doubly honored.

H.S. Students To Visit Wed.

Approximately three hundred and fifty high school seniors and their sponsors will be on campus this Wednesday for High School Visitation Day.

This day, which is primarily a counseling day for these seniors, is designed especially for students who plan to attend college. Faculty members will be available to talk with guests and the highschoolers will also have a chance to visit classes and laboratories.

Schedule for the day also includes a music recital, track meet, baseball game, tennis meet and a special performance of the spring musical, "Bells are Ringing."

At 11 o'clock in Room 110 Luther Hall there will also be a writing contest sponsored by the Journalism Department. This contest is open to all interested seniors.

Teachers Are People

Don't you often wonder how teachers are able to sleep at night after throwing such a dirty test during the day? Especially after grades come out, do you wonder if they don't feel rather guilty?

However, maybe we can excuse them because they aren't really people after all, they're teachers.

One time one teacher was seen eating in the Den.

Evidently they have some human characteristics.

The other night at the intramural games, the faculty played a game of volleyball. There were those poor teachers trying to act like human beings.

Then comes love and marriage. Now isn't that ridiculous? A teacher getting married, isn't that funny?

A cry from a little girl was directed to someone on campus. She said, "Hi, daddy." Here she was directing her comment to a teacher. Can you believe it?

Several days ago one teacher was even heard saying, "I hope it's Outfly. I certainly need rest."

It seems rather funny that teachers should get tired or that they should even want Outfly.

There have been whispers that they play golf, have picnics and play cards. We all thought they were made only to correct papers.

Isn't the idea of some of our professors wearing Bermuda shorts humorous?

The Trumpet was criticized by the Associated Collegiate Press this year for not bringing out the human side of teachers. Maybe they really are human and are people.

They walk, talk, eat, fall in love, marry, get upset, become tired and maybe even feel guilty about those tests.

Yes, this is an informative editorial. Teachers are people.

BECKER'S BANTER

Students Switch To Summertime Chores

By Kathryn Becker

Well, it's getting to be that time again. Nine months of loafing are coming to an end and a three-month period of slave labor looms before the anguished faces of poverty-stricken college students. And they call it vacation!

Becker

It might appear to many that college students are ill-suited for any kind of work. Particularly after such an extensive hibernation. But, being the hardy type, almost reminiscent of the cave man, these individuals will muster up enough energy to engage in some form of enterprise.

The seniors have the advantage of holding previous positions. They have so ingratiated themselves into the hearts of their former summer employers that they can return to their old jobs, probably with a raise in salary because of that extra added year of education and what is laughingly called a degree.

On the other hand, seniors may find it difficult to accept any sort of menial work now that they are educated. Some may begin full-time employment immediately, while others must bide their time until their teaching jobs begin next fall.

To be a college graduate is a great responsibility which is taken seriously only by those who are recent college graduates. Concepts, principles, visions and pride are involved.

Juniors can claim that they are good risks. Anyone who has stuck through three years of college has to be given credit for perseverance, stupidity or guts. Besides, most are now 21 and no longer need to be protected from the cold, cruel world of business and business ethics.

Most sophomores will return to their hometowns for summer jobs. They haven't been gone so long that the local merchants and construction firms have forgotten them. Then there are always business acquaintances of members of the immediate family who can be relied upon for help in keeping junior off the streets for a few months.

But it is the freshmen who have the most fun. Filled with the wisdom that only one year of college can provide, they are ready to educate the world in the ways of the world. To them fall the jobs of camp counseling, recreation directors, baby-sitting and other wholesome pursuits.

They shall take the young in hand and tell them the facts about college and professors. They'll tell them that it isn't all in the books. Much more important than grades is living. And, boy, did they live!

That takes care of everyone — just about. Me? I'm going to summer school, so I won't have to work.

New Senate To Meet With Old, Mon.

By Nelson Meyer
Student Body President

As many of you know, Monday marks another point in student government. That night a joint meeting of the old and new Senates will be held, and the new Senate will begin their work at that time.

Meyer

Whether this is good or bad remains to be seen.

One of the lighter spots of the year has been the increased budget which we have had to work with.

The student government fee was increased to 75 cents this year partly to support the I. M. program. This was done, but we still have a sizeable sum left.

Senate has decided to spend a maximum of $200 of this sum on a new chair and file cabinet for the new SBP's office. This should make a fine addition, as the room will be carpeted.

The remainder of the money has been set aside in a fund for a baby grand piano for the Union lounge.

We are not certain how much will be left, but we are quite certain that if next year's Senate can match our contribution, we should have more than enough to buy a good used piano next year.

I think that this will be a nice addition to our new lounge.

I would like to thank everyone for giving me this opportunity to serve you as student body president (even though some of you insist on walking across town to get me up at 6:30 in the morning!).

Seriously, I consider it an honor, and I am grateful to all those who helped and operated with our program. Without your help and co-operation, the year would have been a failure. Thank you very much.

Try Growing To Become More Secure

By Oscar Lenning

Concerning an article on the editorial page of last week's Trumpet, Verle Reinicke comments on people at Wartburg who "say that they have been swindled out of their faith."

He states, "It is true that one could argue that what is presented is above him and seems to be revolutionary."

"The fault lies not with the college, but rather how one was prepared for it before he entered college. Many times this preparation leaves much to be desired."

I will agree with the writer that there are probably quite a few students at Wartburg who bear the whole responsibility for being "swindled out of their faith" in that they are lazy or have otherwise failed in their responsibility to grow.

However, does this mean that the college is exonerated when it comes to unprepared students being thrown suddenly into material that is above them and only leads to confusion, bewilderment and psychological impairment?

Reinicke states conclusively, "The fault lies not with the college"

Please do not misunderstand me. I am not saying that the college is at fault and must bear some of the blame. Neither am I saying that the college is not at fault.

What I am saying is that there is always room for improvement and certainly the college must constantly evaluate its program in every area and strive to better meet the needs of the student.

I am convinced that a large number of students lack preparation in the area of religion, not because of their own neglect, but largely because the family and the church have failed to provide the proper background.

But does this mean that the college should smugly point its finger and not try to alleviate the situation? The college knows that many entering students are going to be almost totally unprepared in the religious area.

A principle of learning is that you must meet the student on his own level. Why else would they have remedial English courses? Why else would they have prerequisites for courses?

Therefore, I feel that it is imperative that the college try to provide a transitory period of more gradual change which will soften the blow, rather than such an abrupt change that they are "knocked off their feet."

To my way of thinking, you cannot feed a tiny, immature, baby Christian faith adult food or it may die. Faith in Christ must be nurtured when it is a seedling and then as it grows and matures, more advanced and diverse kinds of exercise and food are called for.

The college should try to meet these needs of various individuals. It is definitely a mistake to generalize and put everyone into the same category. More grouping and individual counseling may be called for.

Now please do not take anything that I have said out of context. I am only expressing a few observations and not making any judgments about the college or anyone.

In fact, one of my pet peeves is people who condemn so-called "conservatives" for not being open-minded and yet do not even try to understand why the "conservatives" feel as they do.

In my mind, these self-proclaimed "liberals" are being just as narrow minded and biased. Everyone has a reason for feeling the way he does.

I remember hearing one person say that evangelical interpretation (in the light of Christ) should never be used when studying the Bible because it distorts things. Not wanting to study Scripture in the light of all the different methods of interpretation available seems to me to be very narrow minded.

We should consider all different sides at each juncture before we arrive at any kind of conclusion. I say this to point out the fact that even those who consider themselves open minded really are not. Even though I try to be completely open minded, I am not really open minded.

One more view in closing. The title of Verle Reinicke's article was "Instead of Security, Try Growing." I agree with this statement and I add further: Instead of "Security", try growing, that you may become more secure.

Observation and experience tells me that a maturing faith can lead to a fullness of life and in the Apostle Paul's words, a "peace that passes all understanding" (assurance of faith).

By this I do not mean "no more doubts," but I do mean that there can be a joy and a freedom from guilt underlying the doubts and depressions of a person who has grown in the Faith.

And by growing, I mean the results of exercising your faith in your living and actions as well as growing in the classroom, in worship and in the other ways that the Holy Spirit uses to help you grow.

Jrs. Receive Compliments

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the junior class for a most wonderful prom. It was the type that all proms should be. The decorations fitted the atmosphere exactly.

There are usually people who work quite hard for these activities and get little credit. Belita Sutterfield and Helen Shudlick deserve a lot of credit for the way the gymnasium looked.

Barb Bischoff and Gwen Parlin deserve thanks for the banquet. A special thanks goes to the general chairman of the prom, John Thalacker. I guess there were many other people who worked to make this prom a success, too. Thank you.

PLAY REVIEW

By August Knoll

Bells ring wild and fast on the Wartburg stage during the Castle Singers and Drama Department presentation of the Comden-Green-Styne musical comedy, "Bells Are Ringing."

The fast moving story of a telephone answering service which becomes a cover-up for a bookie ring provides a suitable vehicle for the talents of the able personnel of the Singers.

It is not only two and one-half hours of pure enjoyment, but it also one of the musical highlights of this school year.

Those who thought senior Nancy Ihle was tops in last year's presentation, "Once Upon a Mattress," and this year's Kastle Kapers, are bound not to be disappointed.

Such a versatile voice is truly rare, as is shown in her numbers, "Long Before I Met You," "The Party's Over" and "I'm Goin' Back," to mention a few. Her acting abilities as Ella Peterson, the girl with just too much heart, are no less impressive.

It is unfortunate that everyone cannot be close enough to the stage to catch all of her subtle and not so subtle actions.

Senior Orv McElfresh as Jeff, the playwright, proves himself to have a powerful voice in numbers such as "I Met A Girl." This is Orv's third and final major role in a musical on the Wartburg stage.

Marie Kammerer, senior, portrays the innocent and naive Sue who falls into the scheming hands of the wise Sandor, portrayed by senior David Dix.

Here was the real surprise of the evening. Dix, in his convincing portrayal of the Viennese crook, easily walks away with the show.

The detectives, Art Ruppel, junior and freshman Paul Zidlicky, give added color to the performance. In general, the casting is perfect. Choreography and scenery were also vital parts of the performance and were well done.

All types of music are to be found in the score — ballads, novelties, jazz numbers and swingers.

This year's orchestra provides a different sound in comparison to the musicals of other years. The effect is more that of the big band sound than of a true orchestra.

H.S. Students Earn Regent Scholarships

Three $1,600 Regent Scholarships are being awarded by Wartburg College this year, according to results from the school's Scholarship Committee.

The three recipients, from two different states, won the prizes in competition with 36 other high school seniors from the Midwest.

They are Miss Elaine Ann Handeland of Austin, Minn., Miss Sandra Jeanne Moeller of Davenport and L. Albert Sagert of Independence.

Five candidates also received Merit Scholarships and 13 won Honor Scholarships. The Merit stipend amounts to $900 and the other is worth $750.

The remaining students will each get a $225 High School Honor Scholarship.

Winning Merit awards were: Miss Julianne Dahlquist of Cosmos, Minn., Richard Hertenstein, Jr., of Rantoul, Ill., Miss Susan Siepmann of Jesup, Perry Paxton of Wellsburg and Miss Susan Queck of Fontanelle.

Honor Scholarships go to Gerald Augst of Montgomery, Minn., Miss Janice Crile of Mt. Pleasant, Robert Eltgroth of Chi-

NANCY IHLE, senior, puts her heart into song for one of her solo numbers in "Bells Are Ringing." The musical opened last night and will play tonight and Wednesday.

This is the third musical at Wartburg to be produced under the direction of a most able pair, Dr. James Fritschel and John Gill. The results of their work are well worth the effort.

For an evening of enjoyable comedy and fine music, be sure to see "Bells Are Ringing." It will be presented again this evening at 8 p.m. and next Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. in the Chapel-auditorium.

German Man To Visit At Wartburg May 1-3

Coming directly from the annual convention of the National Association of Foreign Students Advisors, Dr. Wigbert Holle of Bonn, Germany, is on campus from May 1 to May 3.

Dr. Holle is in charge of the exchange student program at the University of Bonn and is in America to develop his "educational contacts" and to enhance his "knowledge of American experiences in dealing with foreign students."

Wartburg has had the exchange program for a number of years and it is in effect this year with the exchange of two Wartburg students for two Bonn students.

A graduate of the University of Bonn, Dr. Holle speaks fluent English. He had made three previous trips to the United States in 1959, 1960 and 1962.

His active interest in the role of foreign students at German universities is shown in the increased enrollment of foreign students at the University of Bonn.

Exchanges have been developed by the University of Bonn with Elmira College, Kalamazoo College, Wartburg College, State College of Washington, Ohio State, University of Kansas, University of Wisconsin, Indiana University and Bucknell.

Students Register

All students will register in May for first semester of the 1964-65 school year, according to John Chellebold, dean of faculty.

Purpose of this advanced registration is to give students a more planned program and to enable a more workable professional block plan which Wartburg is adopting.

Freshmen who have declared a major will now see the head of their major department rather than their previously assigned advisors.

More details about registration will be announced at a later date.

Committee Discusses New Den Hours

Changes in Den hours was the topic for discussion in a recent Student Welfare Committee meeting. Bob Braun, junior, working on this possibility, took a survey of customers in the Den during the last half hour it is open.

This survey showed that the income from the small number of purchases would not be sufficient to cover payment of wages during that time period.

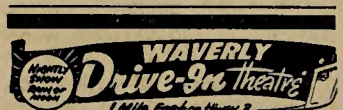

The committee recommended that no change in hours be made at this time, but further consideration will be given to the subject next fall after the Student Union is completed.

Braun also gave indications that the Den would be open after special events next fall.

Committee members sent a written request to the Convo Committee asking that at least two Open Forum Convo's be held next year.

Discussion was also held concerning advance scheduling of STEP tests and a possible smoking room for students in the library. No action was taken.

Carley Splits Pair With Dutch; Faces UIU Peacocks Today

By Chuck Ditto

While Wartburg is playing host to Upper Iowa today, Central travels to Luther to battle for sole ownership of the No. 1 notch.

Should Wartburg win a pair from the Peacocks, Buena Vista take a sweep, and perhaps a split in the Central-Luther double header, the Iowa Conference title race could become the hottest in history at mid-season with a four-way tie for first place.

Nothing gained — nothing lost! That was the story for the first division teams last week as both the Wartburg-Central and the Luther-Buena Vista double headers resulted in splits.

Brilliant two-hit pitching by Leon Carley enabled the Knights to squeak out a 1-0 victory in the opener at Central last Saturday and stay in contention for the title. The Dutchmen scored three runs in the second inning and went on to win the second game 4-0.

Despite scanty hitting and slim pickings in the run department, the Knights are a full game ahead of last year when they successfully defended their conference title.

Oppiemen have only 12 hits and one run to their credit in their last three outings.

Carley completely handcuffed Central during his seven inning stint. Central posed only one minor threat in the 6th when they loaded the bases on a pair of walks and a single, but Carley got left fielder Jim Hall on strikes to end the inning.

Knights punched across the only run of the ball game in the fourth after Kittleson walked and advanced to second on Ray Bye's sacrifice bunt. Al Exner singled sharply, scoring Kittleson.

Carley is now 3-0 for the season and is sporting an earned run average of .94.

Central ace, Lyle Kooiker, ran his scoreless inning streak to 19 as he completely bottlenecked the Knights. He limited the Knights to just 3 hits and shut them out for his third straight victory against no defeats. Kooiker has yielded but one run in his three appearances on the mound.

Batting eyes were restored in the night cap as the Dutchmen pounded Garry Medlang with three straight singles, a sacrifice fly, and another single for three runs before sending him to the sidelines. Dave Langrock was given the call to check the rampaging Dutchmen.

Central tapped Langrock for one more run in the 6th to give them the 4-0 victory.

Langrock sent five men down via the strike route running his total to 32 for the season.

Currently wielding the big stick for the Knights is Exner with a .400 following close behind with a .375 is Larry Dieterichs. Dieterichs gave his average a big boost going three-for-four against Central.

As a team, the Knights are clubbing the ball with little authority, sporting a .236 average.

IT IS A KNOWN fact that all golfers having a bad day on the course swear off golf forever and toss their clubs into the river or do they?

Actually, this is an original idea by one of North Hall's golf enthusiasts to clean clubs.

Ketha "Machine" Takes Lead In Intramural Participation

By Dan Knobloch

Intramural participation points have been compiled showing the Ketha Lamplighters in first place with a 96.7 point lead over second place Clinton III.

The Machine isn't out of the woods yet, however, because I.M. softball and I.M. track are not included in the statistics. Any one of the top five teams could be in first place by June.

Alpha House, in sixth place, is virtually out of the running. The Alpha-ites are combining with the Lamplighters and Gamma men to form a softball team and the three houses will divide any points they may win. This combination took third place last year.

The Machine totaled its points with first place wins in football, volleyball and basketball. The Lamplighters have compiled a fantastic 24-0 record in team sports this year.

Leon Carley, senior, has added 30 points to the leader's score by taking first in both ping-pong and badminton. Dan Knobloch added 5 more by tying for third in the pool tournament.

Clinton III has been battling Ketha all the way and have a good chance of winning the participation award if they can take first or second in softball.

The fellows picked up 25 points in the Turkeyrun on first and second place finishes by Jerry Zehr and Gerald Meister. Meister won 5 more points for the floor when he tied for third in the ping-pong tournament.

These points added to the 20 points in wrestling and the various other points achieved in the team sports put Clinton III in second place.

Off-campus made its supreme effort in volleyball and basketball. They finished first in their league in volleyball, helped by the spiking of Aivars Zosulis and Ted Giese.

They received extra points in basketball because there were a number of Off-campus teams participating. One of the teams, the Ottmen, took first place in their league.

All of this, together with 10 points won by Dave Kildahl for his first place finish in wrestling and Dick Herrmann and Dick Prudlo's second place finishes in pool and ping-pong respectively, gives the Off-campusites enough to hold third place.

I.M. softball begins next Wednesday, May 6. It is a double elimination tournament. The captain of each team has a schedule. The softball tournament would change the standings for the participation award.

The deciding factor could very well be the I.M. track meet which has not been scheduled as yet.

Clinton III will be hurt by the fact that its top track men, Zehr and Meister, are on the varsity track team while the Lamplighters have speedsters such as Larry Dieterichs, who will be able to compete.

Standings by participation points.

Golfers Lose, 13-2 At Gates Park

On Outfly, the linksters should have gone outflying instead of taking on the SCI linksmen at Gates Park in Waterloo. SCI gained revenge for a previous defeat by shellacking the Knights 13-2.

Getting to the greens seemed to be a minute problem for Wartburg, but once on the magic pad, the strokes started adding up. Three putt greens were not unusual, in fact they were quite common.

Meanwhile the Panthers, led by Waverly golfer George Beebe with a 73, hit everything in sight. They were straight and accurate and knew their home course very well.

Scores for the Knights were 81, 82, 83, 84, and 85. In order they were shot by Holland, Jensen, Pietsch, Luttinen and "old timer" Hein.

These just couldn't match up with the Panthers who had 73, 74, 76, 80, and 82.

Knight linksters face the BV Beavers at their home course today in Storm Lake. This course is usually a good easy scoring track for Wartburg, if they can get over, around or through the railroad tracks which cut through many of the holes.

Jomen then come home for a match with the Loras Squad which generally has five men shooting in the mid-70's. This would be a very interesting match for all golf-interested Wartburgers to come out and watch.

The defeat leaves the Knights with a 3-2 dual meet record thus far this season.

When In Doubt, Call Them Out

By John Thalacker, Mike Becker

Having recently begun a new book, "How to Win at Doubles or Call Them All Long," I felt it quite an honor when Racine's most eminent tennis authority asked me to write a guest article on doubles.

In doubles, of particular importance is the wise and advantageous use of three elements of the game, namely, the net game, serve and lob.

The best shot while at the net is the "Four Wood" (not to be confused with Fore-Hand). Extremely difficult to master, this shot completely befuddles the opponent as it ricochets away at a completely unexpected angle.

The serve is considered to be 60 percent of the offensive force on the modern day court. Therefore if your partner smashes an exceptionally hard serve while you are at the net and the ball lands anywhere near the service line, be sure to yell, "Good Shot!" and promptly walk across to the other side of the court.

This not only makes your opponent wonder if he should have made a trip to his optometrist instead of the court, but also puts him in a position of making an unfavorable public scene and being tabbed a griper. (This is of particular advantage when playing at home.)

The job is more often employed as an offensive weapon in doubles than in singles. The idea here is when an opponent hits a shot over your head, place yourself somewhere between him and the ball as it comes down near the back line, thus obstructing his view and leaving the way open to call the shot as you see fit.

The one rule that cannot be over-emphasized in any phase of the game is: When in doubt — call them out.

(This was actually written by John Thalacker and although it is not his real philosophy of the game, he still manages to play pretty good tennis without using these before-mentioned helps.)

Stay tuned next week for a column on the hitters or the lack of hitters on the round-ball team (baseball, that is). Featured will be many fabulous and fabled hitters of the baseball team. Look for names like Exner, Matthias, Bye, Kruger, and Can't really think of any more, but there should be some more.

Wartburg Drops Platteville 95-36

Wartburg cindermen demolished the Platteville State invaders at Schield Stadium, Tuesday, 95-36.

Lothar Columbus, beaten last week by a final spurt of energy loosed by Roger Palmer, took first place in both the mile and two-mile. Columbus pushed hard for the lead on the first lap of each run and made certain he stayed there.

Tim Nelson, a consecutive third place holder for the Knights, stepped up a rung to tie for second in the high jump.

Wartburg swept three events: the javelin throw, the 120-yard high hurdles and the two-mile run. Nearly half of the two-mile run was run in the rain.

Freshman John Van Gerpen nosed out sophomore Jerry Zehr in the 220-yard low hurdles. It's the first time Zehr has been beaten on the home track this year.

Netmen Lose 2, Wendt Is No. 1

Wartburg's tennis team dropped their second straight dual meet since capturing the I.I.A.C. mythical doubles championship at Des Moines.

Since the doubles meet, a vastly improved Jack Wendt has been given the nod for the No. 1 berth.

Monday the netmen dropped a 5-4 decision to the Panthers from State College of Iowa. SCI's Bill Dodd took the No. 1 singles from Wendt 6-2, 6-1.

Unbeaten Luther slapped an 8-1 loss on the Knights Saturday. This was the second time this season the Knights have succumbed to the powerful Nor-skies.

Wendt took his new No. 1 position right in stride by dumping Luther netster, Dean Hanson, in consecutive sets, 7-5, 9-7. Hanson won the No. 1 match in the last Wartburg-Luther encounter.

Wartburg now stands 0-3 for the season in dual competition. Knights are playing host to the Flying Dutchmen of Central this afternoon.

Runners Set New Record

Wartburg's mile relay team broke the school record in that event last week at the Drake Relays in Des Moines.

Team members Harold Shudlick, Jerry Meister, Jerry Zehr and Rodger Haynes zipped around the track in a record time of 3:26.2 seconds, knocking four-tenths of a second off the old mark.

They placed fourth in the event.

Women To Host Sports Day

Women's Athletic Association will sponsor an Iowa Athletic and Recreation Federation for College Women Spring Sports Day.

Upper Iowa, Luther, Coe and State College of Iowa will be participating in this event next Saturday.

Wartburg coeds may sign sheets posted in the dormitories, indicating their desire to participate in track and field events in the morning and softball or tennis in the afternoon.

Junior Ardis Janssen, chairman of Sports Day, urges all Wartburg women to participate.

Let's say for a minute, this is you.

Once you wear the gold bars of a second lieutenant in the United States Air Force, what's in store for you?

Well, you may fly an aircraft entrusted with a vital defense mission. Or you may lead a research team tackling problems on the frontier of knowledge. You'll be helping to run an organization that's essential to the safety of the free world.

Sounds like you'll be called on to shoulder a good deal of responsibility, doesn't it?

But when you come right down to it, that's what your college years have been preparing you for. You've got ability and a good education. Now's the time to put them to work!

You'll have every opportunity to prove your talents in the Air Force. By doing so, you can put yourself and your country ahead.

If you're not already enrolled in ROTC, you can earn your commission at Air Force Officer Training School—a three-month course that's open to both men and women college graduates. To apply, you must be within 210 days of graduation.
